

HIGH COURT DECIDES NOTED O'FALLON CASE

RULES I. C. C. VIOLATED WILL OF CONGRESS

FAILED TO CONSIDER REPRODUCTION COSTS IN FIXING RAILROAD VALUATIONS

DECISION MAY REQUIRE REVISION OF RAILROAD VALUATION SYSTEM

Washington, May 20. — (UP) — The supreme court in a five to three decision on the famous O'Fallon case today ruled that the interstate commerce commission violated the will of congress in failing to give reproduction costs any consideration in fixing railroad valuations.

The decision may require a revision of the railroad valuation system, whereby the basis for all railroad rates of the nation's great transportation artery are fixed.

Justice McReynolds in reading the majority opinion said the court did not find it necessary to decide how much weight should be given to "current reproduction costs" of railroad equipment. It is enough, he said in effect, to find that the congress directed all relevant factors of valuation be taken into consideration and that the commission did not give any weight to "reproduction costs."

Therefore, the decision leaves in the air the controversy as to whether "original costs" or "reproduction costs" shall be used as a rate base, except that the court has ruled that congress has directed consideration of all factors.

Washington, May 20 — Railroads won the billion dollar O'Fallon valuation case in the United States supreme court today.

The high court reversed the decision of a three-judge St. Louis federal court which refused to consider the validity of the interstate commerce commission's system of making calculations for rate making and profits recapture purposes.

Railroads sought to overturn the commission's system because it was not based on the "current reproduction" theory valuation.

Justice McReynolds' opinion said the court was of the opinion that the interstate commerce commission has not given weight to current values.

"The question before us," he said, "is not what weight is to be given to this factor (reproduction costs at current rates.)"

"Congress must be obeyed," he said.

Justice McReynolds' majority opinion took less than 10 minutes to read.

Justice Brandeis then announced disagreement by himself and Justices Holmes and Stone, indicating a six to three division of the court.

The formal order of the court majority was that the decision of the lower three-judge court, upholding the interstate commerce commission, should be vacated and the order reversed.

The interstate commerce commission purposely made this a test case, its decision directing the nine-mile St. Louis & O'Fallon road in southern Illinois to pay over $226,000 in alleged excess profits for the period 1920-24, calculated on the commission's valuation of $850,000.

The commission went generally into the valuation question and defended its valuations as lawful under the 1920 transportation act.

The O'Fallon and the Manufacturers' railway, a St. Louis terminal road, both owned by the Adolphus Busch estate, took up the gage of battle and went into federal court seeking an injunction, attacking the valuation and many other aspects of the recapture order.

The "billion-dollar valuation issue" was taken up and argued broadly, the railroads contending they were entitled to larger valuation based on enhanced prices which have been in effect since the world war.

New York, May 20.—The supreme court order today vacating the I. C. C. valuation of the St. Louis & O'Fallon railroad, brought about the strongest and most active railroad stock buying this year.

Gains of from one to ten points were recorded in the principal carriers and prices jumped one or two points at a time, coming out in long strings on the tape.

Senate Is In Deep-Rooted Dispute Over Secrecy

SCHOOL TEACHER IS A VICTIM OF SLEEPING SICKNESS

St. Paul, May 20.—(UP)—Dorothy Rohwedder, 20-year-old Westport, S. D., school teacher, said to be a victim of sleeping sickness, today passed into her sixty-second day of unconsciousness here at Mounds Park hospital.

Miss Rohwedder was brought here on March 20 from Aberdeen, became unconscious shortly after her arrival and has remained in a coma since. Attendants said that her condition was "fair" and that she had a chance at recovery.

The young teacher was said to have become a victim of the sleeping disease following an attack of influenza.

COL. LINDBERGH TO BE MARRIED IN NEAR FUTURE

CONTINUES TO BE CENTER OF NEWS SPOTLIGHT THROUGHOUT AMERICA

ALL THE WORLD LOVES A LOVER, INTERESTED IN ALL PHASES

By FRANK MURPHY

North Haven, Me., May 20.—(UP)—The second anniversary of the start of his epochal New York-to-Paris flight found Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today approaching another take-off—this time into matrimony.

Just as the eyes of the world were focussed upon him on May 20, 1927, so was he the center of the news spotlight today, for all the world loves a lover, and, as everybody knows, the colonel is planning to marry Miss Anne Morrow some time, somewhere, soon.

As Colonel Lindbergh quietly reflected that two years had elapsed since he flew to fame in the "Spirit of St. Louis," residents of this little island town continued to speculate over the air idol's wedding plans.

Silence and secrecy surrounded the rambling white mansion at Deacon Crown Point, where the colonel and Miss Anne Morrow were in seclusion at the probable scene of their forthcoming wedding.

Sunday probably was one of the most peaceful Sabbaths Colonel Lindbergh has enjoyed since he became a world figure.

With the colonel and Miss Anna at the summer home were Mrs. Morrow, her other daughters, Constance and Elizabeth, her secretary, Miss Josephine Gaham, and one of Miss Anne's girl friends.

The only persons admitted to the house yesterday were Leon B. Stone and Herman Crockett, members of the board of selectmen. There was gossip that Lindbergh had received a death threat and that the conference was called to consider additional means of protecting him against "cranks."

The force of guards about the mansion was not increased today.

GAS TANK STORAGE ORDINANCE HELD VALID

Washington, May 20.—(UP)—City ordinances requiring gasoline stored within city limits to be kept in underground tanks were held valid by the supreme court today in a case appealed by the Standard Oil company and the Sinclair Refining company from Marysville, Kan. Justice Stone announced the court's decision.

Commencing at 12:04 a. m. eastern standard time the quake reached its maximum between 12:33 and 12:37 a. m. and ended approximately four hours later, he said.

London, May 20.—(UP)—A violent earthquake near Shabin Karahissar, Turkey, killed 39 and injured 33, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Constantinople said today. The town of Bouchefir suffered severely.

BELGIUM BALKS ON REDUCTIONS TO GERMANY

UNITED STATES HAD PREVIOUSLY MADE CONCESSION TOWARD REPARATIONS AGREEMENT

PROGRESS OF NEGOTIATIONS IS NOW TEMPORARILY BLOCKED IN PARIS PARLEY

Paris, May 20.—(UP)—Just as the United States made a concession that might have helped towards a reparations agreement, Belgium balked today on making any reduction in her demands on Germany, and the progress of the negotiations was blocked.

The reparations conversations should have entered their decisive phase today, with some hope of concluding this week, but the Belgian position caused an upset at a four-power conference of Britain, France, Belgium and Italy.

The day started auspiciously when Thomas W. Lamont of the American delegation announced that he had received cable authorization from President Hoover that the United States is willing to accept a "material reduction" in each annuity expected from Germany without altering the total.

The American offer meant increasing the number and decreasing the amount of that country's annuities. It would facilitate England's acceptance of the scheme for dividing Germany's contributions in war damages.

At this morning's four-power conference, Belgium firmly refused to go further in the negotiations until she is satisfied on her claim for 25,000,000 marks which she insists is due from Germany because of the German deflation of Belgian currency during the war.

CANTON TAKEN BY REBELLIOUS KWANGSI FORCES

Shanghai, China, May 20.—(UP)—Canton, southern capital of the nationalist government, was captured by the rebellious Kwangsi forces today. General Chen Chitang, commander of the government troops, was reported fleeing. Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang, who declared his opposition to the nationalists yesterday and his intention of attacking them, continued to concentrate his troops at Cheng Chow. It was reported here. Fighting was expected soon.

CLAIM RECORD FOR MINNEAPOLIS GIRL IN PARACHUTE JUMP

Minneapolis, May 20.—(UP)—Friends of Miss Jean Du Rand, aerial daredevil, today claimed that the 19-year-old Minneapolis girl had set a new world record parachute jump for women on Sunday by a leap of more than 18,700 feet.

Gene Shank, pilot, who claimed that the 21,000 foot leap recently accredited to a German woman had been found incorrect, said that his altimeter froze at 17,700 feet and that he and Miss Du Rand climbed at least 500 feet higher before the girl leaped.

The National Aeronautical association had placed a barograph in Shank's plane and was expected soon to announce the exact distance of Miss Du Rand's daring jump.

ADD TO HEAVY DAMAGE CAUSED IN LAST WEEK

SEVERAL VESSELS WRECKED AND 2 MEN LOST THEIR LIVES

50-MILE AN HOUR GALE SCOURGED LAKE AND SHORE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

Chicago, May 20.—(UP)—Storm swept Lake Michigan subsided to a degree today, but its swollen waters continued to hammer at breakwaters and shore lines, adding to the extensive damage already caused in the last week.

Whipped up by high winds, the water tore out great sections of the walls, made parts of driveways here impassable and drenched basements of a number of homes near the shore line. Coast guardsmen were constantly on the alert night and day, standing by for distress calls from boats. Several vessels were wrecked and two men lost their lives.

A fifty mile an hour gale swept the waters of the lake high over the breakwaters Saturday and Sunday.

Craft anchored in supposed sheltered harbors caused their owners considerable anxiety as the waves even in those places piled high. Some waves of 20 feet were reported.

Three men in a 30-foot motor boat were snatched from death by heroic efforts of the guardsmen. The boat was torn loose from its anchor and its motor stalled as the men fought to reach shelter. The guardsmen, fighting against odds, managed to tow the boat to safety.

Guardsmen at all stations noted in cryptic reports how they had fought to save vessels.

LEVEE BREAK FLOODS 50,000 FERTILE ACRES

Kennett, Mo., May 20.—(UP)—Dunklin county flood workers estimated today that approximately 50,000 acres of cotton and corn lands were overflooded by an unexpected break in the St. Francis river levee at Itley, six miles northwest of here early today.

Although several hundred men were at work on the levees at various other points along the river, A. L. Davidson, county treasurer, said today the break occurred at a point "where it was least expected."

The river was "on a stand," however, and was expected to begin a definite fall soon, Davidson said.

MAKE SEARCH FOR MURDERERS OF 3 PEOPLE

WASECA FARMER AND TWO OF HIS CHILDREN SLAIN AT HOME

VICTIMS WERE FOUND WITH SKULLS CRUSHED BY HAMMER

Waseca, Minn., May 20.—(UP)—State, county and city authorities combined their efforts today in the search for the murderers of a Waseca farmer and two of his children at their home near here Saturday night.

The victims, Julius Schuck, 54, son, Earnest, 9, and a daughter, Ida, 11, were found, their skulls crushed by a hammer, by other members of the family.

A small safe, believed to have contained only a few dollars, was missing from the house, leading investigators to advance robbery as the motive for the crime.

No trace has been found of the murderers, Sheriff Alfred Wadd, Waseca, informed the United Press today. Footprints from the house across a field to the highway led Sheriff Wadd and others to believe that two men had attacked the family, removed the safe and walked to the highway and their waiting motor car.

Condition of furniture in the Schuck home gave evidence of a terrific struggle, evidently between Schuck and the attackers. The telephone was torn from the wall and furnishings were broken or disarranged.

Two older daughters found their sister, Ida, badly injured when they returned home at 10 p. m. Saturday. They were unable to find their father or brother and returned to Waseca for help.

Sheriff Wadd and a deputy found the body of the father in the farmyard with Earnest's body nearby. Ida died Sunday in a hospital here.

Bloodhounds were brought to the farm but failed to follow the scent farther than the highway where the murderers evidently entered their automobile.

Sheriff Wadd was aided in the investigation by Waseca authorities and it was announced that three investigators from the state bureau of criminal apprehension would arrive here today.

Waseca, May 20.—(UP)—Assailants who crushed the skulls of a 54-year-old farmer and his two children near here Saturday night still were at large today although authorities were sure that their capture was imminent.

Julius Schuck, his 11-year-old daughter, Ida, and Earnest, 9 were struck down, apparently by hammers at their home three and one-half miles north of Waseca, and the farmer's 150-pound safe carried off.

The father's body was found in the farmyard not far from the body of his son. Ida was found in the home, which bore evidence of a furious battle, and she died less than 24-hours later in a hospital here.

Two other Schuck children, Elizabeth and Wehmelina, discovered the tragedy upon their return from town and summoned neighbors.

Sheriff Alfred Wadd, who directed the search for the assailants, declared today that robbery evidently was the motive behind the crime. He was not inclined to believe that the murderers had been committed by assailants who four years ago battered to

INSURGENTS NOW PLAN A DEMONSTRATION

SOME TO TELL SENATE HOW THEY VOTED UPON LENROOT CONFIRMATION

SENATORS BLAINE, WISCONSIN, AND NORRIS, NEBRASKA, MAY MAKE SPEECHES

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 20.—The senate became involved today in a deep-rooted dispute over the secrecy with which it enveloped itself last week to confirm President Hoover's nomination of Irvin Lenroot of Wisconsin as a customs judge.

A somewhat sensational demonstration against the secrecy rule is planned by insurgents. Half a dozen are considering rising in open senate and during the majority to expel them for telling how they voted upon confirmation.

Senators Blaine, Wisconsin, and Norris, Nebraska, may deliver again in open session the speeches they made in executive session concerning the Lenroot case.

Little of the bitter contest over the nomination has been made public because it all took place in executive session. The senate rules provide expulsion for any senator divulging what happens.

However, some senators have taken the position the rule is obsolete, except for political machinations, and have declined to abide by it. Their demonstration is being arranged to bring matter to an issue in hopes the rule may be overthrown.

It was learned the atmosphere of the executive session was so strained when the vote on Lenroot was taken that Senator Watson, the floor leader, took measures to prevent any senator from keeping a list of the votes.

No list of the 42 to 27 vote by which Lenroot was confirmed was kept, except the official roll which the senate declined to make public.

Blaine, it is known, made a speech just before the vote was taken, charging Lenroot had been illegally admitted to practice before the United States supreme court, a point never previously advanced. He said Lenroot had never tried a legal case before he was elected to the senate, and that he never had been admitted to practice before the Wisconsin supreme court.

The rule provides no one may be admitted before the United States supreme court who has not practiced for three years before his state supreme court.

It is this speech which Blaine may repeat in the open senate. Norris' speech concerned Lenroot's connection with the Teapot Dome case and his employment as counsel for the power interests after he retired from the senate, upon being defeated for re-election by Blaine.

If opponents of the secrecy rule stage their demonstration, a delicate situation never before encountered in the senate will arise.

While these matters were absorbing the discussions among senators, the program for speeding up the farm and tariff bills was developing far enough for congressional leaders to predict the house would pass the tariff bill by the end of the week and the conferees would send the farm bill to the president by June 1.

House and senate committees were meeting on the senate side of the capitol to organize their conference over the farm bill. The conferees stand 8 to 2 against the debate plan so it is considered only a question of time before that feature is eliminated.

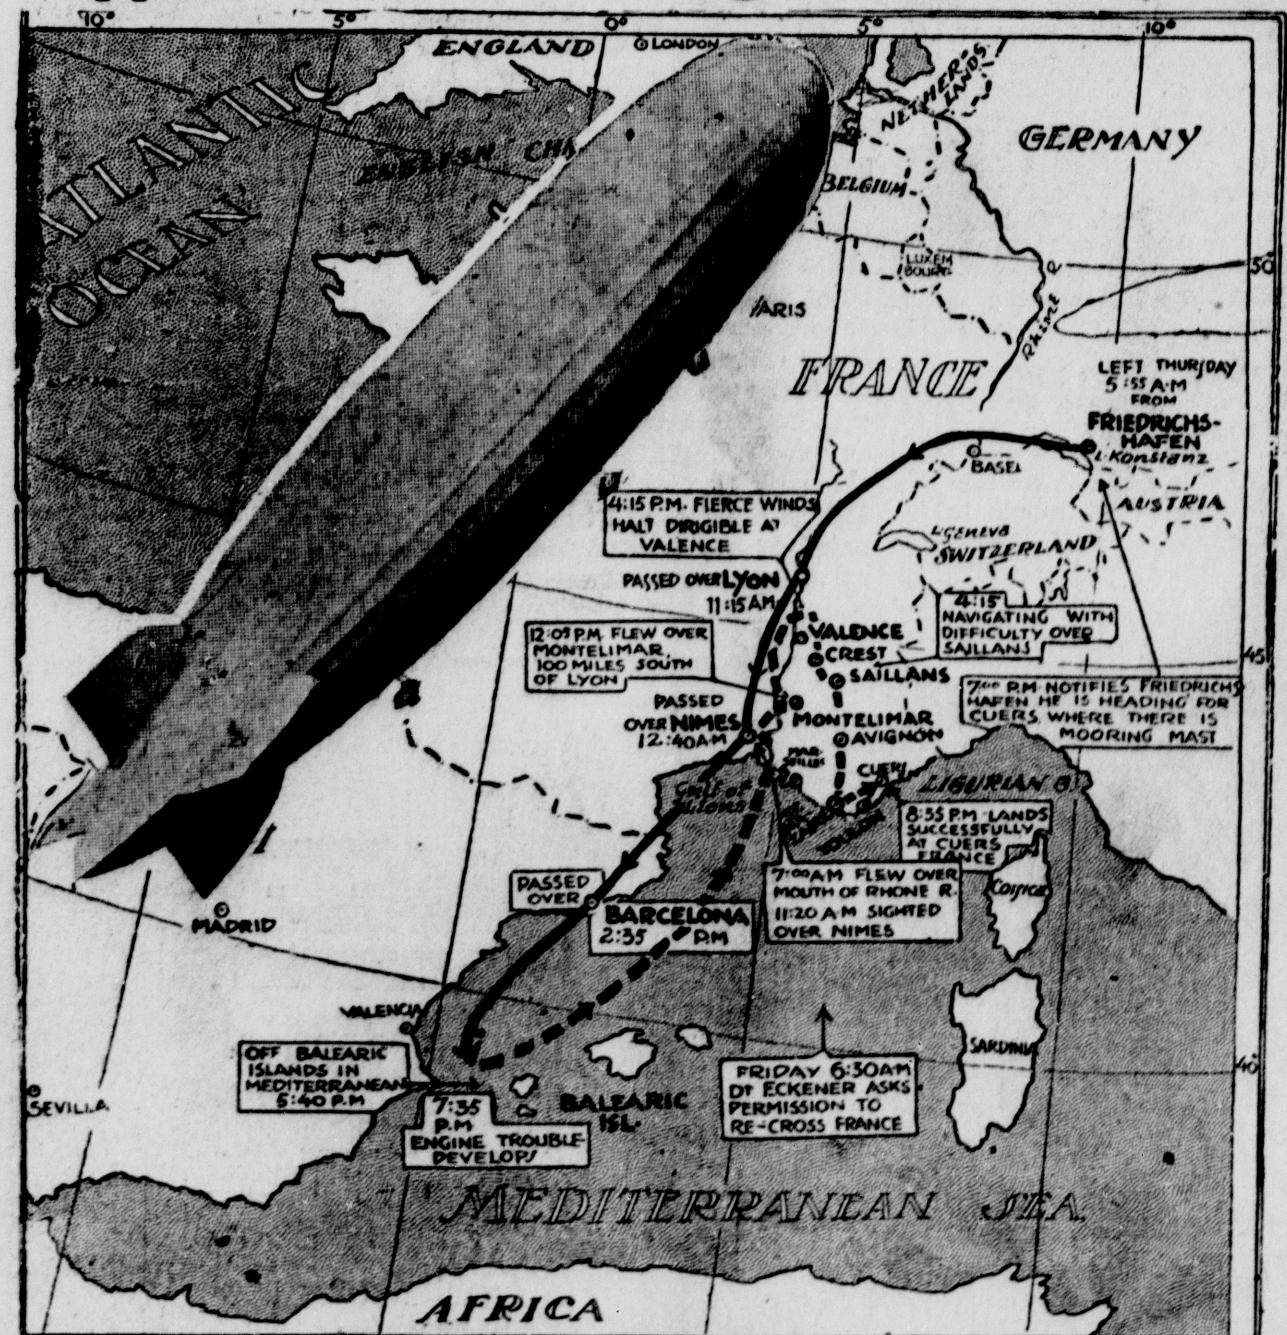

LINDBERGH BUSTS ARE UNVEILED IN ST. PAUL

St. Paul, May 20.—(UP)—The thrill of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's New York to Paris flight was made vivid here again today when Governor Theodore Christianson and other leaders delivered addresses at the unveiling of Lindbergh busts in St. Paul schools.

"Two years have elapsed since this epoch-making accomplishment," the governor said, "enough time for laurel leaves to fade. But Charles A. Lindbergh is as much a hero today as he was then. The people of America have taken him to their hearts. He is their personification of the best in adventurous youth."

The St. Paul civic committee gave a bust to each high school.

Zeppelin Will Start Flight After Repairs

The above map graphically depicts the gallant fight against the elements which the Graf Zeppelin made after four of her five engines were crippled while flying over Spain enroute to the United States. After two engines failed Dr. Hugo Eckener ordered the ship to turn about and head for home. Two more went dead on the way and with only one working the eighteen passengers and crew of the giant airship found themselves drifting helplessly over France toward the Mediterranean. Only the tremendous efforts and skill of Dr. Eckener saved a catastrophe when the Graf finally was landed at Cuers, France. New motors are being rushed to replace the damaged ones and the Graf will proceed to Friedrichshafen. It is believed that the flight to the United States will be tried again after the repairs are made.

"The roof makes such a difference"

Of course John, we want a roof that's awfully good looking but first we want to be sure that it's absolutely weatherproof and won't catch fire from chimney sparks. Dad put Bird's Paroid Roofing on his farm buildings twenty years ago and it's still good.

He suggests we go to the Bird Dealer here and look at the Hex-Twins Bird & Son make. They will last for years—they are fire resisting and—they are Beautiful.

BUYS BIGGER AIRPLANE

Standard Oil Co. (Ind.) Replaces the Famous Stanolind with Finer, Faster Stanolind II., to Be Used for Company Transportation and as Flying Laboratory.

A giant new airplane, all metal, tri-motored, and carrying nine passengers, has just been delivered by the Stout Division of the Ford Motor Company to the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), according to announcement by Allan Jackson, Vice President, speaking for the Directors of the latter company, from its offices at 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago. It has been christened "Stanolind II."

The original STANOLIND was the first giant passenger plane to be purchased by an industrial organization for use in its business. Although originally ordered in June, 1925, it arrived in Chicago from Detroit on the same day, and almost at the identical moment that Lindbergh landed in Paris, May 21st, 1927. During the twenty months of service before it was sold for the larger, finer, and speedier STANOLIND II, it traveled upwards of 81,000 miles, carrying nearly 6,200 passengers, the great majority of whom had never before flown in an airplane. That the Directors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) believe in the safety and advantages of this form of transportation is shown by the statement that the joint mileage of the Directors totaled 87,436.

STANOLIND II is equipped with three Pratt & Whitney "Wasp" motors, each of 410 horse power, a total of 1,230 horse power, giving it a high speed of 140 miles, and a cruising speed of 115 miles per hour. It can go to a 20,000 foot ceiling, and with its gasoline capacity of 355 gallons stored in three tanks in the wings, fly 630 miles without refueling.

It has an overall length of 49 feet 10 inches, and an overall span of 77 feet 10 inches, giving it a wing area of 835 square feet and a gross load capacity of 13,250 pounds. As the weight of the plane and three motors is 7,894 pounds, it leaves 5,356 pounds available for carrying of crew, fuel, and passengers. The actual passenger and baggage capacity is 2,611 pounds, but as the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) officials believe in excess safety factors, the plane will not be permitted to carry a greater load than 2,025 pounds, which represents nine 200 pound passengers and 25 pounds of baggage for each. Seating capacity is provided by adjustable reclining chairs in the 16-foot cabin, which is 4 1/2 feet wide and 6 feet high.

Provision is made for amply heating the plane during cold weather. It is electric lighted, has adjustable windows, and is equipped with two flares for emergency landing in case night flying is done, while in the cabin of the two pilots will be found both magnetic and earth inductor compasses, turn and bank and drift indicators, altimeter, speed indicators, and the usual navigating instruments for both day and night flying. At the rear of the passenger cabin is located the lavatory and toilet, the baggage being carried in compartments in the wings.

The STANOLIND II will remain in Chicago for a week or ten days before going into active service.

May 24th, 25th and 26th, it is to act as the flagship of the St. Paul Association of Commerce's "Good Will Tour" from St. Paul to Winnipeg, carrying as passengers the famous flying St. Paul City Council. June 3rd it will leave Wichita, Kansas, as the flagship of the Second Kansas Air Tour, on its two weeks' trip around that state.

A giant new airplane, all metal, tri-motored, and carrying nine passengers, has just been delivered by the Stout Division of the Ford Motor Company to the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), according to announcement by Allan Jackson, Vice President, speaking for the Directors of the latter company, from its offices at 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago. It has been christened "Stanolind II."

The original STANOLIND was the first giant passenger plane to be purchased by an industrial organization for use in its business. Although originally ordered in June, 1925, it arrived in Chicago from Detroit on the same day, and almost at the identical moment that Lindbergh landed in Paris, May 21st, 1927. During the twenty months of service before it was sold for the larger, finer, and speedier STANOLIND II, it traveled upwards of 81,000 miles, carrying nearly 6,200 passengers, the great majority of whom had never before flown in an airplane. That the Directors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) believe in the safety and advantages of this form of transportation is shown by the statement that the joint mileage of the Directors totaled 87,436.

STANOLIND II is equipped with three Pratt & Whitney "Wasp" motors, each of 410 horse power, a total of 1,230 horse power, giving it a high speed of 140 miles, and a cruising speed of 115 miles per hour. It can go to a 20,000 foot ceiling, and with its gasoline capacity of 355 gallons stored in three tanks in the wings, fly 630 miles without refueling.

It has an overall length of 49 feet 10 inches, and an overall span of 77 feet 10 inches, giving it a wing area of 835 square feet and a gross load capacity of 13,250 pounds. As the weight of the plane and three motors is 7,894 pounds, it leaves 5,356 pounds available for carrying of crew, fuel, and passengers. The actual passenger and baggage capacity is 2,611 pounds, but as the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) officials believe in excess safety factors, the plane will not be permitted to carry a greater load than 2,025 pounds, which represents nine 200 pound passengers and 25 pounds of baggage for each. Seating capacity is provided by adjustable reclining chairs in the 16-foot cabin, which is 4½ feet wide and 6 feet high.

Provision is made for amply heating the plane during cold weather. It is electric lighted, has adjustable windows, and is equipped with two flares for emergency landing in case night flying is done, while in the cabin of the two pilots will be found both magnetic and earth inductor compasses, turn and bank and drift indicators, altimeter, speed indicators, and the usual navigating instruments for both day and night flying. At the rear of the passenger cabin is located the lavatory and toilet, the baggage being carried in compartments in the wings.

The STANOLIND II will remain in Chicago for a week or ten days before going into active service.

May 24th, 25th and 26th, it is to act as the flagship of the St. Paul Association of Commerce's "Good Will Tour" from St. Paul to Winnipeg, carrying as passengers the famous flying St. Paul City Council. June 3rd it will leave Wichita, Kansas, as the flagship of the Second Kansas Air Tour, on its two weeks' trip around that state.

ELECTIONS: BRITISH AND AMERICAN

ONE of the most interesting features of the British election—at least to Americans—is the shortness of the period allowed for the active campaign. The electoral laws make it certain that the struggle will be over quickly, says an editorial in the Christian Science Monitor.

On the eighth day after the proclamation of the election is issued, nominations take place. The poll is held on the ninth day after the nominations. Parliament assembles not less than twenty days after the date of the proclamation summoning it. Thus this year Parliament was dissolved on May 10. Candidates are nominated on May 20. The election takes place on May 30.

This time-table is in striking contrast with the time-table of American elections. The British election is an express train which runs as rapidly as possible. An American election is a local train with many stops. From February to June of presidential years is the period during which delegates to the nominating conventions are chosen. After the conventions, four months are given over to the presidential campaign. The election takes place in November. The electoral college meets in January and the votes are counted by Congress in February, the President takes office on March 4. Unless he calls a special session, Congress does not meet until the following December.

There has always been a tradition in the United States that presidential years were disturbing to business. The statisticians have shown that this is not the case. Fluctuations in business activity between 1888 and 1924 have been exhaustively examined by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Company. He found that business has improved in election years more often than it has declined. "In seven of the twelve cases the year closed with business at a higher level than it held when the year opened. In the remaining five cases the level of business was lower at the close of the year than it was at the beginning." But it is doubtful whether the election had any effect.

The speed with which British elections are conducted makes it impossible for the effect on business activity to be marked. Great Britain is particularly favored, it should be noted, by the fact that only parliamentary elections are held. The poll for members of the House of Commons is uncomplicated by a simultaneous choice of local governmental bodies. In the United States the Chief Executive, members of two branches of the National Legislature, governors, state legislatures, mayors and other officials are voted for at the same time; in addition, many laws go before the people of different states for a popular referendum.

The American system of nomination, furthermore, seems extremely complicated, in comparison with the British practice. A candidate may run for the House of Commons if he is proposed in writing by a registered voter of the constituency and assented to by nine other voters. Freak candidacies or candidates by those who have no chance of polling any considerable strength are prevented by a provision of the electoral law requiring a deposit of £150. This deposit is forfeited if the candidate fails to receive one-eighth of the votes which are polled. This year, however, more than 1600 candidates have presented themselves for the 615 seats in the House of Commons. It is likely, therefore, in view of the many three-cornered contests, that there will be a number of forfeited deposits. This device, however, is a safeguard against too many nominations, and enables the case of nominations to contribute to the quickness with which a British parliamentary election can be concluded.

LONG-RANGE FORECASTS

THE Washington Star inquires whether the weather, or any single element of it, follows periodic cycles. We in the Brainerd Lake Region are aware of the fact that there are periodic cycles in lake levels and that in many cases, seven-year periods mark the cycles between highest and lowest levels.

We know one meteorological cycle, continues the Star, by which we can make predictions with reasonable assurance—that of the solar year. Over any twelve-month period temperatures can be plotted in a fairly smooth curve. It is as certain as anything on this earth that any January in the temperate zone will be considerably colder, on the average, than any July.

But is there a similar cycle extending over years instead of months? Let us assume such a cycle of twelve years corresponding roughly in meteorological phenomena with the twelve-month cycle that we know. Then there would be a January year, a February year, a May year, a July year and a December year. We could predict with assurance that the November year would be cooler than the May year.

None would welcome information of such a cycle more than the professional meteorologists—the staff of the United States Weather Bureau and the official forecasters of other nations. Their work would be easier. Their services would be of more value.

They have examined most of the alleged circular periods and found that they simply do not exist. Belief in them, however, is based in observations which have not been subjected to rigid mathematical analysis.

NEW PAPER CURRENCY

NEW paper currency of the government is to be two and eleven-sixteenth inches wide and six and five-sixteenth inches long. Each bill will bear the portrait of a noted American. The portrait will identify the denomination and thus make counterfeiting more difficult.

Washington graces the $1 bill; Jefferson $2; Lincoln $5; Hamilton $10; Jackson $20; Grant $50; Franklin $100; McKinley $500; Cleveland $1,000; Madison $5,000; Chase $10,000.

Some of us, however, may not gain much acquaintance with the bill pictures of McKinley, Cleveland, Madison and Chase.

DUST these days is one of the first things to tell a motorist the difference between a gravel road and a tarvia paved highway. Yesterday dust hung heavy over Trunk Highway No. 19, gravel road, while clear air blew over the tarvia from Pine River to Brainerd. In spite of its comparative newness, the upper reaches of tarvia show great wear. A bad corner is north of Jenkins and being below ditch level, half the curve is under water.

MAN has not mastered the elements. Engines of the zeppelin grow puny and the storm king whirls the massive air voyager about like a straw in the wind. The fastest ships afloat come battered to port or go down in the deep when assailed by a hurricane.

Community Building

Learn From Other Cities Is Most Excellent Plan

New York has just been told that it can learn many things of value from other cities. In Chicago it can learn what to do with a water front which the metropolis is accused of shamefully neglecting. Boston, Cleveland, Detroit and Los Angeles are among the cities which New York is informed it might profitably study. In the list St. Louis is mentioned as a city that can teach New York the value of hospital beds.

Doubtless the advice given New York could as aptly be given any other city. Cities, like individuals, have specialties in which they excel. They have, their distinctive flairs, influenced, of course, by their necessities, traditions and assets.

Is there any one thing that every city needs? Any one outstanding gift or trait of quality without which it is doomed to plod along laboriously, but given which it can just about perform miracles. We believe there is, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Given official courage, official intellectual integrity and capacity and any city is pretty sure to go impressively ahead.

In a city so governed it is patent that political buncombe would be a dead word. Officials of that caliber would know a good deal about what other cities had done and were doing. They would, of course, know their own city thoroughly, its defects of character and methods as well as its physical requirements, and, when occasion demanded, they would tell their city its faults and how to correct them. There would be no taffy, or flattery, or trite old city hall balderdash. They might incur temporary unpopularity, but that would not weigh at all with men of such measure.

Can such men be found. We believe they can be. Certainly they are worth looking for. Certainly they will not be found in partisan organizations maintained primarily, if not solely for holding office and apportioning the spoils.

Bronze Plate to Certify Quality of Brick Walls

For the first time in the history of the ancient craft, masonry walls are to be built to standard and certified. Beginning January 1, the Common Brick Manufacturers Association of America inaugurated a plan to safeguard principally the home buyer and home builder, by causing to be placed in masonry walls, built of certified brick, with proper design and workmanship, a bronze marker as an evidence of quality.

The certification idea will be carried to other types of construction than homes, and in the carrying out of the plan the national association will have the co-operation of its 400 manufacturing members, located in practically every state in the Union, and its 17 district organizations located in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Boston, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland, Denver, Salt Lake City, New Orleans, Hartford, Conn., Norfolk, Va., and Raleigh, N. C.

Clinker Bricks Bring Top Prices on Market

Clinker bricks, the erstwhile worthless discards of every brickyard, doomed to the refuse piles and the dump heaps, are today the darling little Cinderellas of the building materials field. Today they sell at face brick prices if they are sufficiently fused and adequately pitted with the bubble scars of the searing flames. The history of the clinker brick is one of the romances of later day material development. One day, less than a decade ago, a Chicago architect poking around in a brickyard for something odd and out of the usual run of bricks, dug one of these shiny discards out of the ash heap. The result of that incident was perhaps the first example of skintied brickwork, deliberately done, in America. It scored an instant hit. Today hundreds of skintied brickwork homes dot the country.

Controlling Billboards.

Investigation of outdoor advertising with the idea of ascertaining how it may best be controlled in the interest of conserving the beauty and desirability of residence districts in cities and of scenic countryside has been undertaken by the National Association of Real Estate Boards following a conference on city planning at which the advisability of such control was discussed.

The conference recommended that a committee of three be appointed by the president of the national association to co-operate with a committee from the General Outdoor Advertising association for the purpose of studying the best methods for controlling the placing of billboards.

Service

Business today is based upon service. The "grab and run" manufacturer is almost extinct. Advertising has played its part in his passing. By contrast with the open methods of others, it has thrown his operations into such sharp relief that it has left him no recourse. His failure was inevitable.

People have come to depend upon consistently advertised merchandise. They have confidence in the manufacturer who places himself on record month after month as to the merits of his product. They know he will maintain that product at the standard he has set, not only for their protection but for his own. Should he drop below, the buying public would soon discover it, and his business would be faced by ruin. No manufacturer who is spending large sums to produce, advertise and sell an article is going to take that risk.

Quality, utility and value are the things uppermost in the mind of the advertiser today. Improving his product, making it more useful to you, giving you greater value for your money, these are his aims. When he succeeds, he tells you about it—in the advertisements.

If you neglect the advertisements, you are missing one of the most vital features in this newspaper.

It is as certain as anything on this earth that any January in the temperate zone will be considerably colder, on the average, than any July.

But is there a similar cycle extending over years instead of months? Let us assume such a cycle of twelve years corresponding roughly in meteorological phenomena with the twelve-month cycle that we know. Then there would be a January year, a February year, a May year, a July year and a December year. We could predict with assurance that the November year would be cooler than the May year.

None would welcome information of such a cycle more than the professional meteorologists—the staff of the United States Weather Bureau and the official forecasters of other nations. Their work would be easier. Their services would be of more value.

They have examined most of the alleged circular periods and found that they simply do not exist. Belief in them, however, is based in observations which have not been subjected to rigid mathematical analysis.

NEW PAPER CURRENCY

NEW paper currency of the government is to be two and eleven-sixteenth inches wide and six and five-sixteenth inches long. Each bill will bear the portrait of a noted American. The portrait will identify the denomination and thus make counterfeiting more difficult.

Washington graces the $1 bill; Jefferson $2; Lincoln $5; Hamilton $10; Jackson $20; Grant $50; Franklin $100; McKinley $500; Cleveland $1,000; Madison $5,000; Chase $10,000.

Some of us, however, may not gain much acquaintance with the bill pictures of McKinley, Cleveland, Madison and Chase.

DUST these days is one of the first things to tell a motorist the difference between a gravel road and a tarvia paved highway. Yesterday dust hung heavy over Trunk Highway No. 19, gravel road, while clear air blew over the tarvia from Pine River to Brainerd. In spite of its comparative newness, the upper reaches of tarvia show great wear. A bad corner is north of Jenkins and being below ditch level, half the curve is under water.

MAN has not mastered the elements. Engines of the zeppelin grow puny and the storm king whirls the massive air voyager about like a straw in the wind. The fastest ships afloat come battered to port or go down in the deep when assailed by a hurricane.

Community Building

Learn From Other Cities Is Most Excellent Plan

New York has just been told that it can learn many things of value from other cities. In Chicago it can learn what to do with a water front which the metropolis is accused of shamefully neglecting. Boston, Cleveland, Detroit and Los Angeles are among the cities which New York is informed it might profitably study. In the list St. Louis is mentioned as a city that can teach New York the value of hospital beds.

Doubtless the advice given New York could as aptly be given any other city. Cities, like individuals, have specialties in which they excel. They have, their distinctive flairs, influenced, of course, by their necessities, traditions and assets.

Is there any one thing that every city needs? Any one outstanding gift or trait of quality without which it is doomed to plod along laboriously, but given which it can just about perform miracles. We believe there is, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Given official courage, official intellectual integrity and capacity and any city is pretty sure to go impressively ahead.

In a city so governed it is patent that political buncombe would be a dead word. Officials of that caliber would know a good deal about what other cities had done and were doing. They would, of course, know their own city thoroughly, its defects of character and methods as well as its physical requirements, and, when occasion demanded, they would tell their city its faults and how to correct them. There would be no taffy, or flattery, or trite old city hall balderdash. They might incur temporary unpopularity, but that would not weigh at all with men of such measure.

Can such men be found. We believe they can be. Certainly they are worth looking for. Certainly they will not be found in partisan organizations maintained primarily, if not solely for holding office and apportioning the spoils.

Bronze Plate to Certify Quality of Brick Walls

For the first time in the history of the ancient craft, masonry walls are to be built to standard and certified. Beginning January 1, the Common Brick Manufacturers Association of America inaugurated a plan to safeguard principally the home buyer and home builder, by causing to be placed in masonry walls, built of certified brick, with proper design and workmanship, a bronze marker as an evidence of quality.

The certification idea will be carried to other types of construction than homes, and in the carrying out of the plan the national association will have the co-operation of its 400 manufacturing members, located in practically every state in the Union, and its 17 district organizations located in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Boston, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland, Denver, Salt Lake City, New Orleans, Hartford, Conn., Norfolk, Va., and Raleigh, N. C.

Clinker Bricks Bring Top Prices on Market

Clinker bricks, the erstwhile worthless discards of every brickyard, doomed to the refuse piles and the dump heaps, are today the darling little Cinderellas of the building materials field. Today they sell at face brick prices if they are sufficiently fused and adequately pitted with the bubble scars of the searing flames. The history of the clinker brick is one of the romances of later day material development. One day, less than a decade ago, a Chicago architect poking around in a brickyard for something odd and out of the usual run of bricks, dug one of these shiny discards out of the ash heap. The result of that incident was perhaps the first example of skintled brickwork, deliberately done, in America. It scored an instant hit. Today hundreds of skintled brickwork homes dot the country.

Controlling Billboards.

Investigation of outdoor advertising with the idea of ascertaining how it may best be controlled in the interest of conserving the beauty and desirability of residence districts in cities and of scenic countryside has been undertaken by the National Association of Real Estate Boards following a conference on city planning at which the advisability of such control was discussed.

The conference recommended that a committee of three be appointed by the president of the national association to co-operate with a committee from the General Outdoor Advertising association for the purpose of studying the best methods for controlling the placing of billboards.

Service

Business today is based upon service. The "grab and run" manufacturer is almost extinct. Advertising has played its part in his passing. By contrast with the open methods of others, it has thrown his operations into such sharp relief that it has left him no recourse. His failure was inevitable.

People have come to depend upon consistently advertised merchandise. They have confidence in the manufacturer who places himself on record month after month as to the merits of his product. They know he will maintain that product at the standard he has set, not only for their protection but for his own. Should he drop below, the buying public would soon discover it, and his business would be faced by ruin. No manufacturer who is spending large sums to produce, advertise and sell an article is going to take that risk.

Quality, utility and value are the things uppermost in the mind of the advertiser today. Improving his product, making it more useful to you, giving you greater value for your money, these are his aims. When he succeeds, he tells you about it—in the advertisements.

If you neglect the advertisements, you are missing one of the most vital features in this newspaper.

ANNUAL BIG TEN GAMES ARE TO BE HELD AT EVANSTON

MANY RECORDS EXPECTED TO FALL AT MEET

GEORGE SIMPSON CAPABLE OF FAST 100 AND 220-YARD DASHES

DAVE ABBOTT, ILLINOIS TWO-MILER, MAY BETTER HIS MARK

By BERT DEMBY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, May 20.—Track and field athletes of all western conference schools today began final preparations for the annual Big Ten games at Evanston this week-end. Judging from the form shown by several men this year it appeared almost certain several records will fall during the meet.

Right now, there are eight or ten conference athletes who endanger records each time they enter competition. On a fast track, George Simpson, Ohio State's great sprinter, is capable of covering both the 100 and 220-yard dashes in record time.

Dave Abbott, the Illinois two-miler, who set a Big Ten record of 9:23.7 last year, is capable of bettering his present mark.

If the conference's three best pole vaulters continue in their present form a new record for this event is almost certain.

Tom Warne, Northwestern, Henry Canby, Iowa, and George Otterness, Minnesota have fought for first place in meets all year and each man has bettered the present conference record of 13 feet, 3 inches.

Sm Behr, Wisconsin's Sophomore shot-putter, already has put the shot farther than the present conference mark of 47 feet, three inches, set by Tiny Lewis, in 1927.

Pete Rasmus, Ohio State, has been hurling the discus close to the 155 feet, 2 inch conference record and he may be counted on for a good showing in his final appearance as a college athlete Saturday.

Captain Wilford Ketz, Michigan, again will be shooting at the hammer throw mark, which he now holds at 161 feet, 7 7-8 inches. His work has been good this season and a new record would not be surprising.

Preliminaries in 11 of the 16 events will be held Friday and the finals are to be staged Saturday.

RUNNERS IN PYLE RACE LEAVE MIDLAND FOR ODESSA, TEXAS

Midland, Texas, May 20.—(UP)—Johnny Salo, Passaic, N. J., had an added seventeen minutes' advantage over his nearest competitor in the C. C. Pyle cross-country marathon today, as the runners left today for Odessa, 22 miles distant.

Salo took the lead in the derby on Saturday, passing Pete Gavuzzi, England, in the elapsed time standing and increased his advantage yesterday by tying Sam Richman, New York, for first place in yesterday's 40-mile trot from Big Springs.

Yesterday's Hero—Barleigh Grimes, veteran Pittsburgh pitcher, who held the league-leading Chicago Cubs to seven hits and won his sixth game of the season. The Pirates won, 4 to 1.

The St. Louis Cardinals moved within half a game of the Cubs in the National league by defeating Cincinnati, 2 to 1, in 11 innings. Charley Gelbert's single won the game.

Rube Walberz permitted but seven hits and the Philadelphia Athletics blanked Washington, 7 to 0. Foxx and Miller made three hits each.

Home runs by Ruth and Gehrig helped the New York Yankees beat the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 0, in a five-inning game halted by rain.

The Chicago White Sox won a costly victory from Detroit, 10 to 3, Johnny Mostil fracturing his leg when he tripped over the plate in scoring a run in the fourth inning.

A six-run rally in the eighth inning enabled Cleveland to beat the St. Louis Browns, 10 to 6.

The other two National league games were rained out.

2 KILLED AND 63 INJURED IN A STAMPEDE OF FANS

TORRENTIAL RAIN AT YANKEE BASEBALL GAME IN NEW YORK CAUSED TROUBLE

OFFICIALS OF CLUB ARE EXONERATED TODAY OF BLAME IN MATTER

New York, May 20.—(UP)—Officials of the New York Yankees baseball club were exonerated today of blame in connection with the death of two persons and the injury of 63 yesterday when bleacher fans were stampeded by rain.

District Attorney John E. McGeehan of the Bronx said an investigation showed that there was no negligence on the part of club officials, and that the report that gates were closed, making it impossible for the crowd to get out, was unfounded.

Eleanor Price, 17, and Joseph Carter, 60, were trampled to death in the tunnel way that leads from the right field bleachers to the street. At least 20 of the persons who were treated by physicians were said to be in a serious condition. The panic occurred in what is known as the "Ruthville" section of the Yankee stadium. The right field bleachers are located close to the position which Babe Ruth plays and there gather the most ardent of the slugger's fans.

A torrential rain broke in the fifth inning the umpires called the game, which the Yankees won, 3 to 0, and the 53,000 fans started for the exits. Those in the grandstand, protected by the roof, moved slowly and calmly toward the gates, but in the unprotected bleachers everyone hurried.

Eyewitnesses said a boy stumbled in the corridor that leads from the bleachers to the street. Two men fell on top of him and soon five or six persons were on the ground.

The crowd surged on, trampling on those who could not get to their feet in time. Soon the tunnel-way was jammed. Hundreds were fighting to get into the covered passage.

A few men in front halted and tried to hold back the rush and prevent the persons who had fallen from being stepped on.

They were powerless against the force of the jam and were swept along toward the street exit.

Persons in the grandstand had no intimation of the tragedy, nor had the players who were resting in the clubhouse expecting to be called back to the game after the rain ceased.

When Miss Price was brought into the clubhouse, Babe Ruth immediately went to the field and asked all physicians among the departing grandstand fans to help treat the injured.

St. Paul, May 20.—(UP)—Travelers came back to St. Paul from Atwater today with reports that "oil has been found in them thar mountains."

It was said that a farmer digging a well one mile west of town was forced to stop work because of gas fumes and that a match touched to the pipe produced a flame which burned vigorously.

CITY LEAGUE SCHEDULE GIVEN OUT TO JUNE 1

NO GAME TO BE PLAYED IN THE LEAGUE ON DECORATION DAY

NORTHEAST BOOSTERS TAKE ON Y TUESDAY AND PLAY SOUTH SIDE THURSDAY

Officers of the city baseball league announced today that the schedule is only worked out until June 1, so as to permit any readjustment in the schedule from that date on that might seem advisable. No game will be played Decoration Day in the League. Two games are scheduled for this week, the Northeast Boosters taking on the "Y" Tuesday, and on Thursday, the Northeast team to play the South Side team. Next week on Tuesday, the "Y" will play the South Side again.

The games this week are of especial interest as they will help to decide the strength of Northeast in relation to the other two teams, tomorrow night's game being the first of the year for the Northeast players in the league. Jarboe, Richmond and other players are well known to Brainerd fans and some fast baseball is expected.

The aviation field donated to the league's use by the Rosko brothers will be used for this month's schedule. Fan and players have expressed their satisfaction with the new diamond and further improvements are to be made. Those who wish to remain in their cars to watch the games will be given special parking space which will give an unobstructed view. Ladies and children are admitted free.

The schedule follows:
May 21—Northeast vs. Y. M. C. A.
May 23—Northeast vs. South Side.
May 25—Y. M. C. A. vs. South Side.

AKELEY WINS FROM BRAINERD 8 TO 7 SUNDAY

NORTH WOODS LEAGUE GAME DRAWS 400 FANS AT THE AKELEY OPENER

TOOK 11 INNINGS TO DECIDE; MAYOR SCHEERS PITCHES FIRST BALL

(By Staff Correspondent)

Akeley, Minn., May 20.—Not since the day when Hysing's pool hall and hotel burned has there been as much excitement in town. Akeley is all "het up" for the first home game of Brainerd at Akeley, in the North Woods Association Sunday, saw Akeley win 8 to 7 in a hotly contested 11-inning game.

Mayor Charles F. Scheers, editor and publisher of the Akeley Herald-Tribune, pitched the first ball, and Aro swung and missed. The game started 1 to 1 in the first inning, Brainerd leading 6 to 3 at the end of the eighth, when the commotion started.

Solving Jarbo's delivery, the Akeley team staged a remarkable recovery, piling up seven hits and four runs in the ninth and the town went crazy as the score was tied at 7 to 7. Ed Bell, the postmaster, was yelling on the third base line. Scheers led another contingent near home plate. The 400 fans said it was the best game Akeley had seen in all its history.

Fitzharris took the mound for Brainerd. Akeley put in Kemp. Seven to seven stood the score at the tenth inning. It looked as though the crowd would die of high blood pressure. F. C. Peterson of Williams Lake wanted to bet his Holstein heifer that Akeley would win, but there were no takers.

Came the 11th inning—Brainerd scoreless. Akeley came to bat, human tension snapped and Akeley whipped a run across in a cloud of dust and the game was over, 8 to 7, in favor of Akeley.

Where Are Yesterday's Sluggers?

THERE WAS A TIME WHEN THERE WERE PLENTY OF QUICK K.O.'S ON THE BIG TIME. DEMPSEY SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN THE LAST OF THE SUDDEN DEATH GUYS.

By QUIN HALL

WITH the advent of heavy purses in pugilistic realms, quick finishes seem to have been folded up and put away in moth balls. As one ringsider chortled to another: "It seems the more the customers pay for duels, the less the boys in the ring want to slug."

The general impression seems to prevail that the present crop of heavyweights are a bunch of cream puff punchers or afraid cats who are satisfied to "take good care of themselves" and collect the gravy. In the last heavyweight start of any note, the principals refused to open and take any chances. Both Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling played a protective game at Miami Beach. They constituted a pair of exceedingly careful, cautious young men. And they collected plenty of money for their thirty minutes of cautiousness.

How different it was back in the days when the fighters were really slugging for loose change. Or even in the days not so long ago when Dempsey was cavorting about the squared circle. There was no hint of loose change in some of the Dempsey purses, but Jack was always trying for a quick finish—taking two or three blows to land a good one. He was seldom, if ever, careful or cautious.

The old Manassa Mauler hung up a great record for quick knock-outs. The real fight fan enjoys slugging—especially when the big boys are in the ring. That's why Dempsey would be a great card even today.

The late Bob Fitzsimmons built a reputation as a terrific hitter—

a fighter who specialized in quick finishes. Peter Maher rocked plenty of big fellows to sleep in less than three minutes and was, himself, polished off five times in the first round. One of these occasions was when Fitz did the trick in less than a minute when the pair met on Mexican soil across from Langtry, Tex., in 1896.

In 1893 Fitz knocked out Jim Hall in the fourth round at New Orleans for a purse of $40,000, winner take all. It was the biggest money offered up to that time for a ring bout. During the fray the promoter walked out leaving about five grand behind him for the winner. Fitz accepted the shortened purse and did it with a grin. He was accustomed to being cheated. But—how he could hit!

ANNUAL BIG TEN GAMES ARE TO BE HELD AT EVANSTON

MANY RECORDS EXPECTED TO FALL AT MEET

GEORGE SIMPSON CAPABLE OF FAST 100 AND 220-YARD DASHES

DAVE ABBOTT, ILLINOIS TWO-MILER, MAY BETTER HIS MARK

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, May 20.—Track and field athletes of all western conference schools today began final preparations for the annual Big Ten games at Evanston this week-end. Judging from the form shown by several men this year it appeared almost certain several records will fall during the meet.

Right now, there are eight or ten conference athletes who endanger records each time they enter competition. On a fast track, George Simpson, Ohio State's great sprinter, is capable of covering both the 100 and 220-yard dashes in record time.

Dave Abbott, the Illinois two-miler, who set a Big Ten record of 9:23.7 last year, is capable of bettering his present mark.

If the conference's three best pole vaulters continue in their present form a new record for this event is almost certain.

Tom Warne, Northwestern, Henry Canby, Iowa, and George Otterness, Minnesota have fought for first place in meets all year and each man has bettered the present conference record of 13 feet, 3 inches.

Sm Behr, Wisconsin's Sophomore shot-putter, already has put the shot farther than the present conference mark of 47 feet, three inches, set by Tiny Lewis, in 1927.

Pete Rasmus, Ohio State, has been hurling the discus close to the 155 feet, 2 inch conference record and he may be counted on for a good showing in his final appearance as a college athlete Saturday.

Captain Wilford Ketz, Michigan, again will be shooting at the hammer throw mark, which he now holds at 161 feet, 7 7/8 inches. His work has been good this season and a new record would not be surprising.

Preliminaries in 11 of the 16 events will be held Friday and the finals are to be staged Saturday.

JOHNNY SALO CONTINUES TO PILE UP LEAD

HAD 17 MINUTES ADVANTAGE OVER HIS NEAREST COMPETITOR

RUNNERS IN PYLE RACE LEAVE MIDLAND FOR ODESSA, TEXAS

Midland, Texas, May 20.—(UP)—Johnny Salo, Passaic, N. J., had an added seventeen minutes advantage over his nearest competitor in the C. C. Pyle cross-country marathon today, as the runners left today for Odessa, 22 miles distant.

Salo took the lead in the derby on Saturday, passing Pete Gavuzzi, England, in the elapsed time standing and increased his advantage yesterday by tying Sam Richman, New York, for first place in yesterday's 40-mile trot from Big Springs.

Yesterday's Hero—Burling Grimes, veteran Pittsburgh pitcher, who held the league-leading Chicago Cubs to seven hits and won his sixth game of the season. The Pirates won, 4 to 1.
The St. Louis Cardinals moved within half a game of the Cubs in the National league by defeating Cincinnati, 2 to 1, in 11 innings. Charley Gelbert's single won the game.
Rube Walberg permitted but seven hits and the Philadelphia Athletics blanked Washington, 7 to 0. Fox and Miller made three hits each.
Home runs by Ruth and Gehrig helped the New York Yankees beat the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 0, in a five-inning game halted by rain.
The Chicago White Sox won a costly victory over Detroit, 10 to 3, Johnny Mostil fracturing his leg when he tripped over the plate in scoring a run in the fourth inning.
A six-run rally in the eighth inning enabled Cleveland to beat the St. Louis Browns, 10 to 6.
The other two National league games were rained out.

2 KILLED AND 63 INJURED IN A STAMPEDE OF FANS

TORRENTIAL RAIN AT YANKEE BASEBALL GAME IN NEW YORK CAUSED TROUBLE

OFFICIALS OF CLUB ARE EXONERATED TODAY OF BLAME IN MATTER

New York, May 20.—(UP)—Officials of the New York Yankees baseball club were exonerated today of blame in connection with the death of two persons and the injury of 63 yesterday when bleacher fans were stampeded by rain.

District Attorney John E. McGehegan of the Bronx said an investigation showed that there was no negligence on the part of club officials, and that the report that gates were closed, making it impossible for the crowd to get out, was unfounded.

Eleanor Price, 17, and Joseph Carter, 60, were trampled to death in the tunnel way that leads from the right field bleachers to the street. At least 20 of the persons who were treated by physicians were said to be in a serious condition. The panic occurred in what is known as the "Ruthville" section of the Yankee stadium. The right field bleachers are located close to the position which Babe Ruth plays and there gather the most ardent of the slugger's fans.

A torrential rain broke in the fifth inning the umpires called the game, which the Yankees won, 3 to 0, and the 53,000 fans started for the exits. Those in the grandstand, protected by the roof, moved slowly and calmly toward the gates, but in the unprotected bleachers everyone hurried.

Eyewitnesses said a boy stumbled in the corridor that leads from the bleachers to the street. Two men fell on top of him and soon five or six persons were on the ground.

The crowd surged on, trampling on those who could not get to their feet in time. Soon the tunnel-way was jammed. Hundreds were fighting to get into the covered passage.

A few men in front halted and tried to hold back the rush and prevent the persons who had fallen from being stepped on.

They were powerless against the force of the jam and were swept along toward the street exit.

Persons in the grandstand had no intimation of the tragedy, nor had the players who were resting in the clubhouse expecting to be called back to the game after the rain ceased.

When Miss Price was brought into the clubhouse, Babe Ruth immediately went to the field and asked all physicians among the departing grandstand fans to help treat the injured.

'OIL HAS BEEN FOUND IN THEM THAR MOUNTAINS'

St. Paul, May 20.—(UP)—Travelers came back to St. Paul from Atwater today with reports that "oil has been found in them thar mountains."

It was said that a farmer digging a well one mile west of town was forced to stop work because of gas fumes and that a match touched to the pipe produced a flame which burned vigorously.

J. R. Armstrong, who brought back the report, said oil had been found before in Meeker and Kandiyohi counties. In neither county was the strike rich enough to give much encouragement.

CITY LEAGUE SCHEDULE GIVEN OUT TO JUNE 1

NO GAME TO BE PLAYED IN THE LEAGUE ON DECORATION DAY

NORTHEAST BOOSTERS TAKE ON Y TUESDAY AND PLAY SOUTH SIDE THURSDAY

Officers of the city baseball league announced today that the schedule is only worked out until June 1, so as to permit any readjustment in the schedule from that date on that might seem advisable. No game will be played Decoration Day in the league. Two games are scheduled for this week, the Northeast Boosters taking on the "Y" Tuesday, and on Thursday, the Northeast team to play the South Side team. Next week on Tuesday, the "Y" will play the South Side again.

The games this week are of especial interest as they will help to decide the strength of Northeast in relation to the other two teams, tomorrow night's game being the first of the year for the Northeast players in the league. Jarboe, Richmond and other players are well known to Brainerd fans and some fast baseball is expected.

The aviation field donated to the league's use by the Rosko brothers will be used for this month's schedule. Fan and players have expressed their satisfaction with the new diamond and further improvements are to be made. Those who wish to remain in their cars to watch the games will be given special parking space which will give an unobstructed view. Ladies and children are admitted free.

The schedule follows:
May 21—Northeast vs. Y. M. C. A.
May 23—Northeast vs. South Side.
May 28—Y. M. C. A. vs. South Side.

AKELEY WINS FROM BRAINERD 8 TO 7 SUNDAY

NORTH WOODS LEAGUE GAME DRAWS 400 FANS AT THE AKELEY OPENER

TOOK 11 INNINGS TO DECIDE; MAYOR SCHEERS PITCHES FIRST BALL

(By Staff Correspondent)
Akeley, Minn., May 20.—Not since the day when Hysing's pool hall and hotel burned has there been as much excitement in town. Akeley is all "het up" for the first home game of Brainerd at Akeley, in the North Woods Association Sunday, saw Akeley win 8 to 7 in a hotly contested 11-inning game.

Mayor Charles F. Scheers, editor and publisher of the Akeley Herald-Tribune, pitched the first ball, and Akeley swung and missed. The game started 1 to 1 in the first inning. Brainerd leading 6 to 3 at the end of the eighth, when the commotion started.

Solving Jarbo's delivery, the Akeley team staged a remarkable recovery, piling up seven hits and four runs in the ninth and the town went crazy as the score was tied at 7 to 7. Ed Bell, the postmaster, was yelling on the third base line. Scheers led another contingent near home plate. The 400 fans said it was the best game Akeley had seen in all its history.

Fitzharris took the mound for Brainerd. Akeley put in Kemp. Seven to seven stood the score at the tenth inning. It looked as though the crowd would die of high blood pressure. F. C. Peterson of Williams Lake wanted to bet his Holstein heifer that Akeley would win, but there were no takers.

Came the 11th inning—Brainerd scoreless. Akeley came to bat, human tension snapped and Akeley whipped a run across in a cloud of dust and the game was over, 8 to 7, in favor of Akeley.

ONE OF CHINA'S GREATEST WARS IS IMPENDING

REPORTS FROM SHANGHAI PUBLISHED IN THE LONDON DAILY MAIL

MARSHAL FENG-YU-HSIANG DECLARES WAR ON GEN. CHIANG KAI-SHEK

London, May 20.—(UP)—One of China's greatest wars was impending today, reports from Shanghai published in The Daily Mail declared, stating that Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang had declared war on Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the nationalist government.

Marshal Feng, the so-called Christian general, is classed among the most powerful war lords of China, and formerly was minister of war in the nationalist government. He resigned that post on March 18, however, and maintained a neutral position during the succeeding Kwangsi rebellion against Gen. Chiang.

Gen. Chiang issued an ultimatum to Marshal Feng last week ordering him to disband his armies, and the Christian General's declaration of war was the reply to the ultimatum.

In his declaration of war, Marshal Feng charged Gen. Chiang was squandering the government's funds for reconstruction and exploiting the presidential office for his personal ends.

Both sides were speeding up their preparations for war. Marshal Feng began slowly withdrawing his troops into Honan and Shensi provinces and destroying property on all sides. It was estimated that $1,000,000 damage already had been done.

MAKE SEARCH FOR MURDERERS OF 3 PEOPLE

death Louis Minske, a bachelor, who lived near the Schuck home.

Wadd said that the bloodhounds which were summoned from Redwood Falls were unable to trail the Schuck killers because of the heavy rain which fell on the vicinity Sunday.

"We will have the assassins soon," the sheriff said, "we may get them today."

Waseca, Minn., May 20.—(UP)—Aroused by one of the most brutal crimes in the history of Waseca county, local authorities and state operatives today bent every effort to track down the assailants who on Saturday night killed a farmer and his two children with a hammer.

Sometime between supper time and 10 o'clock Julius Schuck, 54, his daughter Ida, 12 and 10-year-old son Ernest, were battered to death at their farm home five miles northwest of Waseca, apparently by two assailants.

The farmer's 150 pound safe, which was said to contain little of value, was carried off.

A blood-stained hammer, a cap and a smoking pipe, were the only clues. Sheriff Alfred Wadd, who was called immediately after the tragedy had been discovered by two other Schuck children, Evelyn and Wilhelmina, went at once to the farm home and a call for operatives was made upon the state bureau of criminal apprehension.

General Walter F. Rhinow, sent four operatives and was reported on his way here today with five others.

St. Paul, May 20.—(UP)—General Walter F. Rhinow, chief of the state bureau of criminal apprehension, informed the United Press today that he and his entire force of operatives were "going down to Waseca at once to clear up the hammer murder of Julius Schuck and his two children."

"There is something big behind those deaths," Rhinow said, "and we intend to clear it up."

"Schuck and his children hardly were killed by professional robbers. A professional would not use so clumsy a tool as a hammer. Furthermore we do not think that robbery was the motive for the crime."

"The murder four years ago of Louis Minske under similar circumstances never was cleared up and it looks as though there may be some connection between the two. We are going to make every effort to get at the bottom of this thing."

Rhinow sent three operatives to Waseca as soon as he was informed of the murders and he planned to take the remaining five men down there today and himself direct their operation.

PRES. HOOVER IS RECOVERING FROM BLACK EYE

Washington, May 20.—(UP)—President Hoover is suffering from the most prosaic of human afflictions—a blackened eye.

While rambling through the woods at his camp in the Shenandoah National park during the week end, he was struck by a branch of a bush that whipped back as he passed. The injury is not serious but the eye is thoroughly discolored.

Dr. Joel T. Boone, the president's personal physician who accompanied the party, treated the eye immediately.

MAKES WEATHER INDOORS

AN air conditioning system for the home, adapting the principles of those installed in theatres and large industries where atmospheric conditions must be constant, is one of the latest developments of science. According to architects and thermal engineers, it promises to change present methods of domestic ventilation and meet the urgent need for home humidification.

Functioning literally as a weather-maker in the home, the new device which is smaller than the usual hot-air furnace, warms, cleanses, humidifies and circulates air, instead of performing the single service of heating.

Cooler air, which collects near the floor, is drawn through grilles into ducts connected with the unit in the basement. Here the air is cleaned by passing through filters of fine mesh wire like a steel wool, which acts as a barrier to dust particles and the germs carried by them. It is then caught up by a motor-operated rotary blower and forced through a series of gas heated sections. The air is next moistened by passing over a humidifier capable of evaporating twenty to thirty gallons of water a day and then distributed to every room through ducts connected to register openings. The device is the invention of Willis H. Carrier, of Newark, N. J., an internationally known thermal engineer.

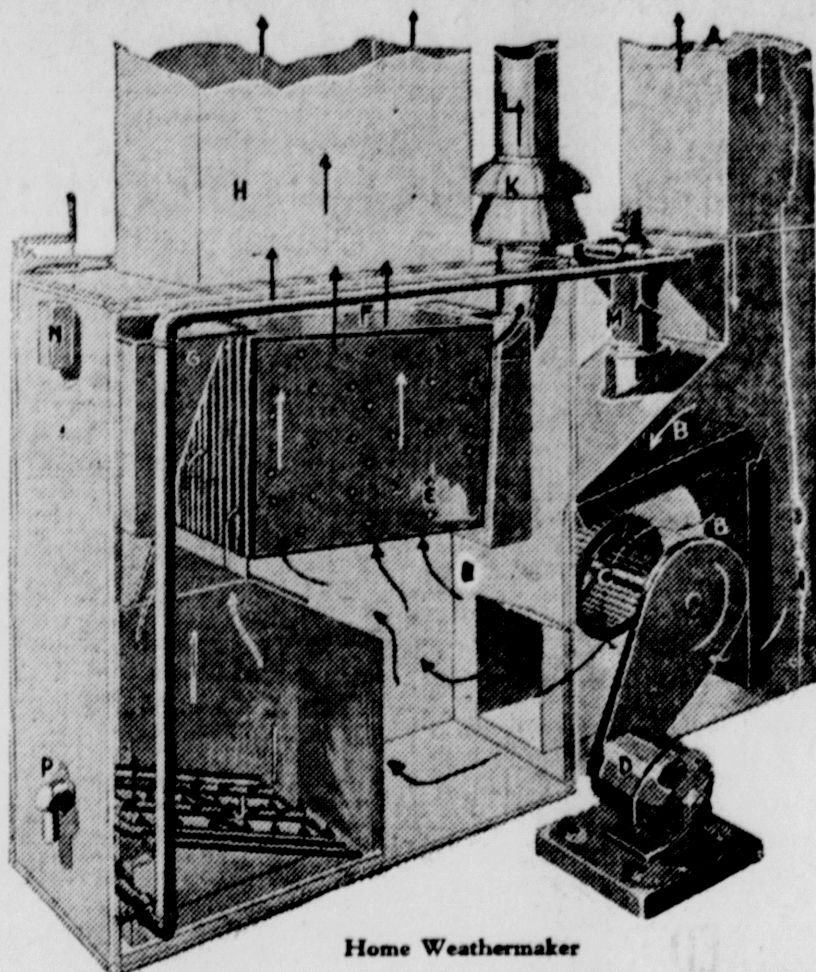

Humidity Needed in Home

For some time scientists have maintained that the average home atmosphere is deficient in moisture during the winter. This is partially due, it is said, to outside atmospheric conditions, but more especially to heating of air already lacking water-vapor. It has been found that a winter day in the eastern part of the United States has an average humidity of from ten to eighteen per cent. This is less than the twenty per cent humidity maintained in a lumber kiln used for drying wood or the twenty-three per cent minimum on the Sahara Desert.

With respect to the comfort factor, a temperature of sixty-eight with a relative humidity of thirty-five to forty per cent is far more comfortable than a temperature of seventy-five with deficient humidity; it is also healthier and less enervating.

From the standpoint of the housekeeper, the equipment is declared to possess advantages. Continuous filtering results in removal of dust before it reaches the rooms. The addition of moisture serves to prevent the drying out of walls, furniture and trim with resultant cracking.

Water is fed, in the new domestic air conditioning system, to the humidifying chamber from the house supply, the supply being automatically regulated; here it is warmed over the combustion chamber to a degree where it steams, the heated air taking up moisture as it passes

Home Weathermaker

Newly invented domestic air conditioning system which warms, cleanses, humidifies and circulates air. Illustration shows how air is brought in through incoming duct "A" drawn through filters "B" by the rotary fan "C" (operated by exterior motor "D"), forced through heat interchanger "E", into humidifying chamber "F", into mixing chamber "H" and thence out into the house. The filters remove 98 per cent of the dust; the rotary pump keeps up a constant circulation both from and into the rooms of the house. The heat interchanger is heated by gas burner "J", above which is humidifier "G". This humidifier contains a constant quantity of water—controlled by a float-valve, which evaporates into the humidifying chamber and mixing chamber, where it is borne away by the warm column of ascending air. The thermostat "M" controls the heat of the building, while "P" is the pilot governing the gas flame and "N" the excess heat control. Escape of any fumes of gas or carbon is provided through backdraft diverter "K" and flue "L".

through the chamber. The tank, equipped with dirt strainer, holds from five gallons of water upward, depending upon the size of the installation. Air temperatures are thermostatically controlled.

The motor which drives the blower is from one-eighth to one-quarter horse power, operating on 110 volts, either alternating or direct current.

Birds on the Wing

Here in America man appears to have reverted to the ancient nomadic strain. We flit from one apartment to another on moving day. We move from city to city as our business beckons. We peripatetic between town, seashore and lakeside. Our savage forbears chased the herds; we chase the sunshine. In us, as in them, is a restless longing for change of scene.—Woman's Home Companion.

Norma Talmadge plays the most daring role of her career in "The Woman Disputed," an adaptation of the sensational stage success of the same title, which is showing at the Lyceum tonight and Tuesday. Miss Talmadge's second vehicle for United Artists has its locale on the Austrian-Russian border before and during the World War. The earlier scenes reveal the star as a flashily-garbed girl whose beauty makes her a conspicuous figure in the nightlife of an Austrian city. She is loved by two men, former friends, whom the war makes enemies as well as rivals.

Famous Book Shop Burns, Destroying Many Valuable Calf-Bound Classics

THE morning of April 18th, 1929, found an excited crowd on Broadway, not a stone's throw from Yale University at New Haven, Conn., watching the flames as they rose higher and higher over a badly gutted book-shop and the prized acquisitions of ten years' careful and discriminating search.

Strangely enough, this shop grew out of a famous saloon, where it was "always fair weather." That is to say, when prohibition hit Ed Tuttle, the popular proprietor of the bar, he was complaining one evening about the falling off in business to Arthur and Wilfred Head, two former Liverpool lads, who continued to frequent the place. He didn't see any sense in keeping up the tremendous room which once was the most popular rendezvous in the town.

It was here that the Heads conceived the idea of taking over half of the place, including a large room right overhead, and establishing a bookshop. At that time Arthur, a man who includes among his talents bookbinding, illustration, and wood-carving, was working at the Yale Library, and Wilfred at a book store. Will had accumulated some business experience, which fitted him to handle the financial end of the business. The combination, then, was an ideal one and the shop grew from a tiny idealistic scheme to the tremendous shop which was destined to become a landmark of the city.

There was one particular feature about this shop which is almost unique in this day of commercialism. That was the atmosphere that pervaded the place. To quote an English professor of the university: "These boys have accomplished something that doesn't exist. Their shop has atmosphere. Something

During the last few years alfalfa hay is becoming quite generally used as a protein supplement for feeding hogs. In some instances alfalfa meal has been used for this purpose and to determine the relative value of alfalfa in the form of alfalfa meal or alfalfa hay as compared with oilmeal when fed with a ration of shelled corn, tankage and minerals to hogs, the Michigan experiment station conducted a test in 1927 with five lots of pigs weighing 57 pounds each at the beginning of the test.

This experiment indicated that alfalfa hay produced greater gains with less feed than did either alfalfa meal or oilmeal when fed with the ration of tankage, shelled corn and minerals. That alfalfa meal required a greater amount of feed with a ration of tankage, shelled corn and minerals.

That the addition of oilmeal to a mixture of tankage and alfalfa meal reduced the gains.

The addition of alfalfa hay to tankage and oilmeal produced larger gains and required less feed for the gains produced than did the addition of alfalfa meal with tankage and oilmeal when fed with a ration of tankage, shelled corn and minerals.

The conclusions that must be reached from this experiment are that alfalfa hay is more profitable for feeding hogs than alfalfa meal; that it produces greater gains with less feed than does alfalfa meal; also that alfalfa hay when fed to swine together with oilmeal produces greater gains with less feed than does alfalfa meal with tankage and oilmeal.

Many swine producers in those sections where alfalfa hay is produced have adopted this as a general practice in their swine herd with very satisfactory results. It is a practice that will no doubt continue to grow from year to year.—Dr. George W. Conn., Stephenson county, Ill.

Johne's Disease of Cattle Increasing

Most stockmen have become aware that chronic bacterial dysentery of cattle, more commonly called Johne's disease or paratuberculosis, has gradually been increasing in prevalence. Possibly it always has been as prevalent, but was not regarded as a specific disease, or it was thought to be tuberculosis in an advanced stage, or a form of scouring induced by damaged feed.

Anyhow, it has been taking its toll of life and as no remedy has been found for the malady and destruction of affected animals has come to be the adopted course of procedure by the state authorities, stockmen have been concerned over the outlook. However, there will be some satisfaction in knowing that the federal government now grants indemnities for animals found affected.

It is probable that various states, especially those where dairy cattle are numerous, will also offer indemnities for animals slaughtered on account of Johne's disease. Wisconsin has already taken that step and owners will now feel more inclined to have the test applied to cows that suffer from a chronic form of dysentery.

In some of the European countries Johne's disease has become seriously prevalent. The disease is contagious, the germs being voided in the feces. The disease may, for a time, lie dormant, but when it shows up it always proves fatal.

ONE OF CHINA'S GREATEST WARS IS IMPENDING

REPORTS FROM SHANGHAI PUBLISHED IN THE LONDON DAILY MAIL

MARSHAL FENG-YU-HSIANG DECLARES WAR ON GEN. CHIANG KAI-SHEK

London, May 20.—(UP)—One of China's greatest wars was impending today, reports from Shanghai published in The Daily Mail declared, stating that Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang had declared war on Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the nationalist government.

Marshal Feng, the so-called Christian general, is classed among the most powerful war lords of China, and formerly was minister of war in the nationalist government. He resigned that post on March 18, however, and maintained a neutral position during the succeeding Kwangsi rebellion against Gen. Chiang.

Gen. Chiang issued an ultimatum to Marshal Feng last week ordering him to disband his armies, and the Christian General's declaration of war was the reply to the ultimatum.

In his declaration of war, Marshal Feng charged Gen. Chiang was squandering the government's funds for reconstruction and exploiting the presidential office for his personal ends.

Both sides were speeding up their preparations for war. Marshal Feng began slowly withdrawing his troops into Honan and Shensi provinces and destroying property on all sides. It was estimated that $1,000,000 damage already had been done.

MAKE SEARCH FOR MURDERERS OF 3 PEOPLE

death Louis Minske, a bachelor, who lived near the Schuck home.

Wadd said that the bloodhounds which were summoned from Redwood Falls were unable to trail the Schuck killers because of the heavy rain which fell on the vicinity Sunday.

"We will have the assailants soon," the sheriff said, "we may get them today."

Waseca, Minn., May 20.—(UP)—Aroused by one of the most brutal crimes in the history of Waseca county, local authorities and state operatives today bent every effort to track down the assailants who on Saturday night killed a farmer and his two children with a hammer.

Sometime between supper time and 10 o'clock Julius Schuck, 54, his daughter Ida, 12 and 10-year-old son Ernest, were battered to death at their farm home five miles northwest of Waseca, apparently by two assailants.

The farmer's 150 pound safe, which was said to contain little of value, was carried off.

A blood-stained hammer, a cap and a smoking pipe, were the only clues. Sheriff Alfred Wadd, who was called immediately after the tragedy had been discovered by two other Schuck children, Evelyn and Wilhelmina, went at once to the farm home and a call for operatives was made upon the state bureau of criminal apprehension.

General Walter F. Rhinow, sent four operatives and was reported on his way here today with five others.

St. Paul, May 20.—(UP)—General Walter F. Rhinow, chief of the state bureau of criminal apprehension, informed the United Press today that he and his entire force of operatives were "going down to Waseca at once to clear up the hammer murder of Julius Schuck and his two children."

"There is something big behind those deaths," Rhinow said, "and we intend to clear it up."

"Schuck and his children hardly were killed by professional robbers. A professional would not use so clumsy a tool as a hammer. Furthermore we do not think that robbery was the motive for the crime."

"The murder four years ago of Louis Minske under similar circumstances never was cleared up and it looks as though there may be some connection between the two. We are going to make every effort to get at the bottom of this thing."

Rhinow sent three operatives to Waseca as soon as he was informed of the murders and he planned to take the remaining five men down there today and himself direct their operation.

PRES. HOOVER IS RECOVERING FROM BLACK EYE

Washington, May 20.—(UP)—President Hoover is suffering from the most prosaic of human afflictions—a blackened eye.

While rambling through the woods at his camp in the Shenandoah National park during the week end, he was struck by a branch of a bush that whipped back as he passed. The injury is not serious but the eye is thoroughly discolored.

Dr. Joel T. Boone, the president's personal physician who accompanied the party, treated the eye immediately.

MAKES WEATHER INDOORS

AN air conditioning system for the home, adapting the principles of those installed in theatres and large industries where atmospheric conditions must be constant, is one of the latest developments of science. According to architects and thermal engineers, it promises to change present methods of domestic ventilation and meet the urgent need for home humidification.

Functioning literally as a weather-maker in the home, the new device which is smaller than the usual hot-air furnace, warms, cleanses, humidifies and circulates air, instead of performing the single service of heating.

Cooler air, which collects near the floor, is drawn through grilles into ducts connected with the unit in the basement. Here the air is cleaned by passing through filters of fine mesh wire like a steel wool, which acts as a barrier to dust particles and the germs carried by them. It is then caught up by a motor-operated rotary blower and forced through a series of gas heated sections. The air is next moistened by passing over a humidifier capable of evaporating twenty to thirty gallons of water a day and then distributed to every room through ducts connected to register openings. The device is the invention of Willis H. Carrier, of Newark, N. J., an internationally known thermal engineer.

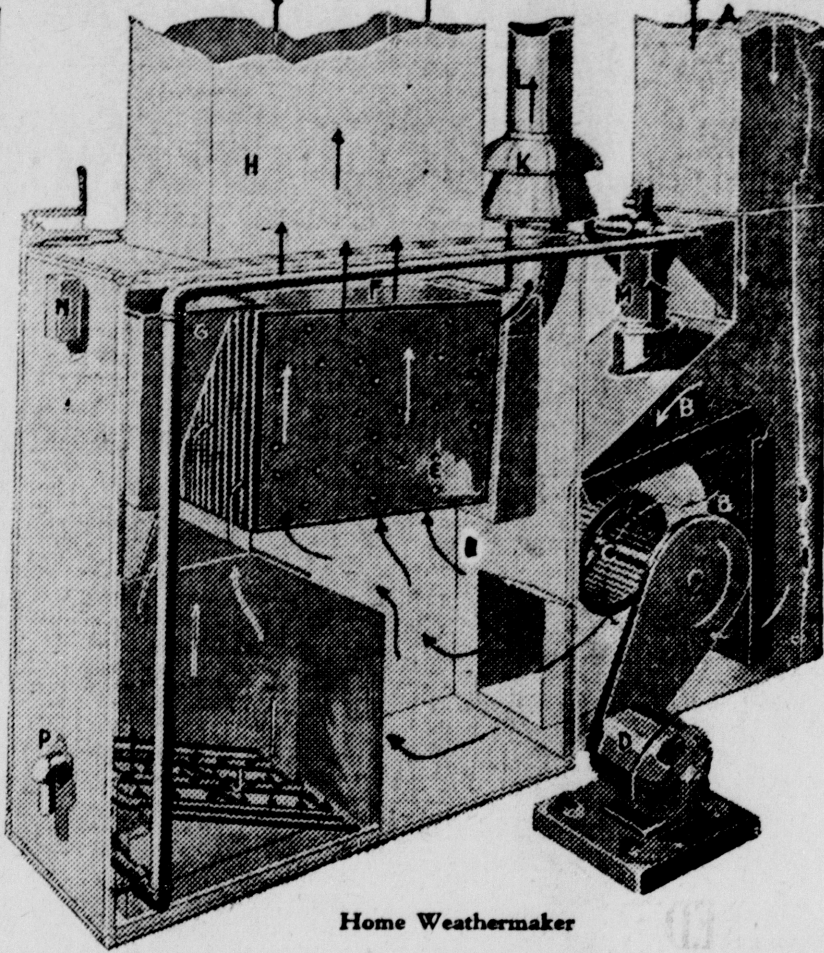

Humidity Needed in Home

For some time scientists have maintained that the average home atmosphere is deficient in moisture during the winter. This is partially due, it is said, to outside atmospheric conditions, but more especially to heating of air already lacking water-vapor. It has been found that a winter day in the eastern part of the United States has an average humidity of from ten to eighteen per cent. This is less than the twenty per cent humidity maintained in a lumber kiln used for drying wood or the twenty-three per cent minimum on the Sahara Desert.

With respect to the comfort factor, a temperature of sixty-eight with a relative humidity of thirty-five to forty per cent is far more comfortable than a temperature of seventy-five with deficient humidity; it is also healthier and less enervating.

From the standpoint of the housekeeper, the equipment is declared to possess advantages. Continuous filtering results in removal of dust before it reaches the rooms. The addition of moisture serves to prevent the drying out of walls, furniture and trim with resultant cracking.

Water is fed, in the new domestic air conditioning system, to the humidifying chamber from the house supply, the supply being automatically regulated; here it is warmed over the combustion chamber to a degree where it steams, the heated air taking up moisture as it passes

Newly invented domestic air conditioning system which warms, cleanses, humidifies and circulates air. Illustration shows how air is brought in through incoming duct "A" drawn through filters "B" by the rotary fan "C" (operated by exterior motor "D"), forced through heat interchanger "E", into humidifying chamber "F", into mixing chamber "H" and thence out into the house. The filters remove 98 per cent of the dust; the rotary pump keeps up a constant circulation both from and into the rooms of the house. The heat interchanger is heated by gas burner "J", above which is humidifier "G". This humidifier contains a constant quantity of water—controlled by a float-valve, which evaporates into the humidifying chamber and mixing chamber, where it is borne away by the warm column of ascending air. The thermostat "M" controls the heat of the building, while "P" is the pilot governing the gas flame and "N" the excess heat control. through the chamber. The tank, equipped with dirt strainer, holds from five gallons of water upward, depending upon the size of the installation. Air temperatures are thermostatically controlled.

The motor which drives the blower is from one-eighth to one-quarter horse power, operating on 110 volts, either alternating or direct current.

Thomas Davis, Minneapolis, one of a group of three attorneys for the plaintiff stated in his opening talk to the jury that Moquin suffered injuries in the fall that incapacitated him from duty for the remainder of his life as a brakeman railway employee and that testimony would be brought in to substantiate the statement. He also told the jury that testimony would be introduced to prove that the Soo Line was negligent in permitting ice to remain on the rails which it is alleged caused the derailment of the box car which caused Moquin to be thrown from the top of the car to the ground.

Moquin was the first witness called this morning. He testified that he had been employed as a brakeman for the Soo Line railway for 18 years.

Representing the plaintiff are: firm of Davis, Michel and Yaeger, Minneapolis and Attorney Hilding Swanson, Brainerd. Attorneys appearing for the defendant are: John E. Palmer, Minneapolis, Fryberger, Fullon and Doyle, Duluth and D. H. Fullerton, Brainerd.

GEORGE TRACY SPEAKS

Brainerd Business Man Addresses
Sunday School Class and
150 Delegates

The close of the B. Y. P. U. convention at the First Baptist church came last evening with an address by Rev. E. H. Rasmussen of Minneapolis. Through the day the regular services of the church were followed, with the addition of a consecration service in the afternoon addressed by Rev. Richard Hoiland of Chicago, and a devotional hour in the evening addressed by Miss Florence Allen of Minneapolis.

The large Sunday school class of young people including about 150 of the delegates besides many of the local young people was addressed by George Tracy of this city. He drew an interesting distinction between believers and disciples, and started several stimulating discussions on the question of rewards for spiritual service. The morning service was addressed by the local pastor, Rev. Harold F. Damon. He expressed sorrow for leaving the Northwestern Association where he has had so much delightful spiritual fellowship with the churches. He delivered an address on the subject "Essentials of Christian Character," and said in part that "Faith which brings life, growth resulting from life, fruitfulness resulting from growth, are essentials of the character which should distinguish the Christian. We cannot have Christian character until we have Christian life and this comes with the new birth. We have much old dead wood in the churches which imagines that it has life but it has never borne fruit and is good for nothing but to be cut off and cast into the fire."

In the afternoon consecration service three young people dedicated their lives to Christian service. In the evening Rev. E. H. Rasmussen brought forcefully to his hearers the fact that the Christian religion offers the only possible basis for hope for the world. "Philosophy, science, or progress can never take the place of this." The young people departed after the evening service with many expressions of appreciation to the people of Brainerd for their hospitality, and the kindness that was shown.

Miss Stone suffered a fractured leg and bruises about the body while Mr. Vranich was cut about the face and suffered injuries about the body. They are at present in the St. Joseph's hospital.

'DEAD' DOG ELUDES HIS EXECUTIONERS

Three Brainerd boys know now the sensation the farmer boy experienced when he shot the old gray mare and returned to the barn from the field of execution to find the mare alive and well munching her evening meal.

The Brainerd youths took upon themselves the responsibility yesterday afternoon of administering the coup de grace upon a feeble dog which had become a bit of a nuisance to North Brainerd residents.

They borrowed a high powered revolver, took "Towser" down near the river, dug the grave, and prepared for the final details of the execution. "Towser" took the charge from a distance of three feet and then showed his heels. The boys chased it through the woods but the dog eluded them, running as if for the river.

Believing that the dog had run blindly into the river the youths returned to their homes. Across the street they saw "Towser" standing on a neighbor's lawn very much alive, although a bit suspicious of them.

A Brainerd policeman was today looking for "Towser" to attempt to do the execution more effectively.

Six people were injured in automobile accidents over the week end in Crow Wing county, according to hospitals here and on the Cuyuna Range.

Mike Vranich, Crosby, and Irge Stone, Brainerd, suffered injuries when the Essex roadster they were riding in crashed off the road on highways No. 19 and 2 at the first turn beyond the Northern Pacific railway tracks near the city limits early Sunday morning.

The two are reported to have been returning from a dance when the accident occurred. The car jumped the ditch and struck a tree. The steering wheel was broken off in the impact and the front of the car smashed in.

Miss Stone suffered a fractured leg and bruises about the body while Mr. Vranich was cut about the face and suffered injuries about the body. They are at present in the St. Joseph's hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Olson of Crosby are in the Miner's hospital following an automobile crash yesterday afternoon on the highway between Crosby and Ironton. Ed. Hall, deputy game warden, occupant of the other car was also treated at the hospital for injuries.

James Burg of Iron Hub was seriously injured when his car crashed off the road near Crosby. He is in the Miner's hospital.

Watch for this danger signal—a dirty ring around the washtubs

HAVE you seen it in your washtubs? Of course you have! Do you know what it means? Of course you know that it means the washing has been done in hard water. Soap combined with the hardness and made scum. The scum collected dirt, some went into the clothes, some formed the dirty ring.

Soften hard water with Melo and it becomes a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. No dirty ring! White clothes! Soap saved, from 1/3 to 1/2 the amount ordinarily used. Use Melo wherever you need soft water. Notice how much more effective the soap is! Get Melo at your grocer's.

Action for Damages to Brakeman on
Soo Line Opens Here
This Morning

SIX ATTORNEYS IN CASE

Jury of Six Men and Six Women
Hear Case of Man Thrown From Box Car

Damages in the amount of $60,000 are sought in district court here by Noah Moquin, of Superior, Wis., for injuries resulting to him through a fall from a box car at Cloverson, Minn., on February 27, 1928 alleged by the plaintiff to have been caused through negligence on the part of the Soo Line railway, defendant.

Presentation of evidence started in court before a Crow Wing county jury of six women and six men, and presiding judge, Hon. Graham Torrance this morning.

Selection of the jury was completed within 90 minutes. Jurors on the case which was brought to this county on a change of venue, are: Charles M. Taylor, C. J. Peterson, Mrs. Tony Stark, George Hardy, Mrs. C. A. Nelson, Mrs. F. G. Mayberry, Harry Benson, Edward Lehrke, Mrs. Warren Campbell, S. Wahlstrom, Mrs. Herman Bakklia and Mrs. F. H. Mahle.

Thomas Davis, Minneapolis, one of a group of three attorneys for the plaintiff stated in his opening talk to the jury that Moquin suffered injuries in the fall that incapacitated him from duty for the remainder of his life as a brakeman railway employee and that testimony would be brought in to substantiate the statement. He also told the jury that testimony would be introduced to prove that the Soo Line was negligent in permitting ice to remain on the rails which it is alleged caused the derailment of the box car which caused Moquin to be thrown from the top of the car to the ground.

Moquin was the first witness called this morning. He testified that he had been employed as a brakeman for the Soo Line railway for 18 years.

Representing the plaintiff are: firm of Davis, Michel and Yaeger, Minneapolis and Attorney Hilding Swanson, Brainerd. Attorneys appearing for the defendant are: John E. Palmer, Minneapolis, Fryberger, Fulton and Doyle, Duluth and D. H. Fullerton, Brainerd.

Evidence, attorneys said this morning, would be heard for three days.

GEORGE TRACY SPEAKS

Brainerd Business Man Addresses
Sunday School Class and
150 Delegates

The close of the B. Y. P. U. convention at the First Baptist church came last evening with an address by Rev. E. H. Rasmussen of Minneapolis. Through the day the regular services of the church were followed, with the addition of a consecration service in the afternoon addressed by Rev. Richard Holland of Chicago, and a devotional hour in the evening addressed by Miss Florence Allen of Minneapolis.

The large Sunday school class of young people including about 150 of the delegates besides many of the local young people was addressed by George Tracy of this city. He drew an interesting distinction between believers and disciples, and started several stimulating discussions on the question of rewards for spiritual service. The morning service was addressed by the local pastor, Rev. Harold P. Damon. He expressed sorrow for leaving the Northwestern Association where he has had so much delightful spiritual fellowship with the churches. He delivered an address on the subject "Essentials of Christian Character," and said in part that "Faith which brings life, growth resulting from life, fruitfulness resulting from growth, are essentials of the character which should distinguish the Christian. We cannot have Christian character until we have Christian life and this comes with the new birth. We have much old dead wood in the churches which imagines that it has life but it has never borne fruit and is good for nothing but to be cut off and cast into the fire."

In the afternoon consecration service three young people dedicated their lives to Christian service. In the evening Rev. E. H. Rasmussen, brought forcefully to his hearers the fact that the Christian religion offers the only possible basis for hope for the world. "Philosophy, science, or progress can never take the place of this." The young people departed after the evening service with many expressions of appreciation to the people of Brainerd for their hospitality, and the kindness that was shown.

PLAYFUL BITE OF CAT BRINGS DEATH

Washington, May 20.—(U.P.)—The playful bite of a cat, which every morning awakened its master by jumping on the bed, has caused the death of Alvin W. Miller, principal of the Central high school.

'DEAD' DOG ELUDES HIS EXECUTIONERS

Three Brainerd boys know now the sensation the farmer boy experienced when he shot the old gray mare and returned to the barn from the field of execution to find the mare alive and well munching hay evening meal.

The Brainerd youths took upon themselves the responsibility yesterday afternoon of administering the coup de grace upon a feeble dog which had become a bit of a nuisance to North Brainerd residents.

They borrowed a high powered revolver, took "Towser" down near the river, dug the grave, and prepared for the final details of the execution. "Towser" took the charge from a distance of three feet and then showed his heels. The boys chased it through the woods but the dog eluded them, running as if for the river.

Believing that the dog had run blindly into the river the youths returned to their homes. Across the street they saw "Towser" standing on a neighbor's lawn very much alive, although a bit suspicious of them.

A Brainerd policeman was today looking for "Towser" to attempt to do the execution more effectively.

Brainerd Dispatch

Daphne

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

TO escape the nagging of a stepmother and the selfishness of her stepister, Daphne Haines, seventeen and beautiful, leaves home determined to make her own living. She has a difficult time in San Francisco and nearly starves until she encounters Ralph McKevitt, family friend, wealthy and handsome, whom her half-sister, Crystal, has decided to marry for luxury and comfort, rather than love. Ralph soon wins Daphne's affection, and she is exquisitely happy until Crystal appears. Crystal uses McKevitt as a "good thing," but spends much time with a debonair Bohemian, Avery Woodward, who promises to teach her much of life and love and art. Unhappy because Ralph obviously neglects her now, Daphne moons and dreams until she reduces her efficiency to a point where she loses her position. Ill with humility and fright, she sits in the park. Suddenly she discovers Ralph driving along in a smart roadster. She tells him her troubles and he promises to find her a position. Meanwhile Crystal is making more demands on Ralph's time and purse. He is annoyed, but he reasons, Crystal is a helpless type of girl, and he must stand by her. Daphne becomes secretary to a prominent elderly lawyer, who takes a fatherly interest in her. She is overjoyed when he invites her and Ralph to his home, and with the aid of Miss Viola manages to get a new dress for the occasion. Ralph sends Allan Winters, a friend, in his place. Her new dress now seems a gigantic failure. During the journey Allan's attempt at sociability is wasted, for the girl at his side seems unconscious of his presence. Her mind is filled with thoughts of Ralph, whom she adores. The visit is pleasant and Allan Winters proves to be a delightful companion. They play together on the beach like a couple of carefree children.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXV.
DAPHNE thought, "I won't run after any man—not even Ralph! If he wants to go to art balls with other girls, and I lie to me, let him! What do I care?" And with her door locked, and her head under the covers, she had a good cry, and felt better. Her eyes were only a little red the next morning, and long before Miss Yardley came to remind her it was lunch time she had thought of a thousand excuses for him, and stopped worrying. Miss Yardley was a much better listener than Flora. Daphne told her the whole story over their strawberry ice cream sodas and nutty sandwiches, and when Miss Yardley sighed and said, "Aren't you the lucky thing—having two wonderful friends like Mr. McKevitt and Mr. Winters?" she felt popular and beloved, and oh, so sorry for poor Miss Yardley, who hadn't any men friends at all. The more she thought about it the more she wanted Allan Winters and nice Cora Yardley who had such pretty clothes and pretty manners, and wasn't so awfully nosily once you got used to her stick-out teeth and near-sighted eyes behind the dark-rimmed glasses, to like each other. "Mr. Winters!" Daphne's voice was a little breathless when she finally summoned courage to call Allan. "This is—Daphne." "Yes?" He seemed so cold and business-like over the telephone that she hardly knew how to go on. "I'm sorry that Ralph isn't in," he was saying, "I'll have him call you later." "But it was you I wanted to talk to! I thought . . . we had such a wonderful day Sunday . . . perhaps we could . . . perhaps you'd like to . . . to come to a friend's apartment with me, and have dinner. It would be rather fun, cooking and everything. She's an awfully nice girl . . . I know Ralph is too busy right now, but I thought that maybe you . . . I'm afraid I'm too busy too,

Daphne. We're doing some extra work here in the office. Thanks just the same. It was nice of you to think of me." He was cordial enough, and she knew there was extra work going on in Ralph's office, there was no real reason for being hurt at his refusal. But she was hurt. She had counted on him so much, had been so sure of his friendship. With Ralph it was different. Ralph was popular, and rushed, Ralph was a man of affairs. You couldn't expect too much of Ralph. Even if he did love you, he had other friends, other interests. But Allan . . . "good old Al," as Ralph called him . . . it did hurt hideously, when he failed. . . . She tried once more, the following Thursday, and once again when he came into Greely's office on business a few days later. But after seeing him, and talking with him there was no mistaking it. He had changed, he didn't want her friendship. He was embarrassed and restless, anxious to get away. "Well it was nice to see you again, Miss Haines," (Miss Haines! . . . after he'd called her Daphne all day in Bolinas!) "Sorry Mr. Greely isn't in. I'll have to be getting back to the office . . . Goodbye!" She watched his slight, shock-headed figure slip through the door, waited to hear the outer door close. Then she went angrily back to her work. After that her manner with Miss Yardley was more diffident. She told her Allan Winters had changed—or something—since Sunday—anyway, he wouldn't do at all. "Isn't that just my luck?" Miss Yardley lamented good naturedly. "That's the way with the men. You can't count on them." She was five. It knocked her faith in everything . . . and every-body. September passed, the leaves fell. There was the feeling of Autumn in the air, of sadness, and loneliness. Ralph came so seldom. "It isn't that I don't want to see you often, honey girl . . . kiss me? You do love me a little don't you? You better! If I ever get out of this mess I'm in I'll make it up to you—honest I will!" he promised, holding her close, kissing her lowered eyelids. And Daphne, thrilling to his words, forgave him for the broken engagements, the empty evenings. Forgive him for everything, for everything he did, and everything he failed to do . . . she didn't care, she'd wait . . . he wouldn't be rushed and worried forever. "I wish I knew more about business," she thought, helplessly. "It's all over my head—all the stocks and things Ralph is fussing about, and Mr. Greely complaining . . . he oughtn't to talk to Ralph the way he does—Ralph knows what he's doing!" Her loyalty was torn two ways . . . why couldn't they get along? But apparently they couldn't any more. Each day brought bitterness and bickering. Ralph was in and out of the office, flushed and angry, arguing with the old man. And Mr. Greely, grayer and gruffer than ever, snarled and cursed, and pounded the desk. "That damn fool here again? My Lord, am I to wet nurse him forever? Well, tell him to come in, damn it, come in!" It was a fight about money, of course. Men were always fighting about money. "I wish there wasn't any money in the world!" she told Ralph after one of the stormy sessions. "It makes all the unhappiness there is. My father loved money so much that he let Mother kill herself with overwork, to save it, and now my stepmother is spending it, and he's killing himself with worry . . . oh, Ralph, it isn't worth it. If Mr. Greely won't let you have more capital just do without it—what does it matter? It can't be worth all the fights." "Pull some of that argument on Greely," he said moodily. "Make him see that he's going to drive me to drink or suicide—or worse—if he don't loosen up . . . it's so damned unfair—to think my own father would put me in this position—make me dependent upon Greely for what's rightfully mine—Mine! Well, I won't stand it much longer. I'll hire the best attorneys in this town—I'll—" "But John Greely is supposed to be the best there is—" "Yeh—and the crookedest! . . . Another thing, he's getting childish. I've got chances to make real money now—I'd be a millionaire in four months if I didn't have him on my neck. He'd see it if he were clearer mentally—he's getting senile—" "Senile! Why Ralph he isn't—he's the keenest, quickest person I ever knew! He has a memory like a card index—you're wrong if you think—" She stopped suddenly, frozen with terror. Old Mr. Greely had opened the door of his private office. He stood there, towering above them, looking at least ten feet high. "If you have business to discuss you will discuss it with me, not my secretary, McKevitt!" His voice was ominously quiet. He motioned Ralph to enter, with formal politeness. The door closed behind them. (To Be Continued Tomorrow.) Copyright, 1929, King Features Syndicate, Inc.
